

Dr. Harrison,

I am very happy and honored to inform you that the board of the Austrian Small Animal Association - VOEK has decided that you will receive the "Klaus Dreier Medal" for your extraordinary veterinary services.

You have been the first Avian Specialist who was lecturing in Austria many years ago (I think it was 1993) and you have established modern Avian Medicine worldwide.

The Klaus Dreier Medal was established in 2015 and is given every year to an extraordinary person in the field of small animal medicine. You will be the second person honored with this medal - first was Prof Mayrhofer from Vienna University.

A representative of VOEK will present the medal to you during the gala evening at the FECAVA Congress in June.

In the name of the Austrian Veterinarians, I am happy to be the first person to congratulate you to this medal!

Dr. Hans Klaus Dreier (VI '70), Baden, Austria, received the President's Award for outstanding contributions to the association. This is the association's inaugural presentation of the President's Award, which will be presented time to time by the WSAVA president to a member of the association. Dr. Dreier owns a specialty small animal veterinary clinic and has published extensively in the field of small animal reproduction. Dr. Dreier has served with WSAVA as chair of the Continuing Education Committee, member of the Finance Advisory Committee member, and president from 1998-2000.
